5. Fund Management & Environmental Analysis (as of March 2015)

Market Overview

The Interest rates market received a boost from pro-gr across global central banks in the first quarter of the year. More than 20 central banks moved to cut key interest rates to alleviate concerns on growth and persistent decline in consumer prices ushered by the fall of global oil prices to 6-year lows. The liquidity from the massive Eur1.1T bond buying program of the European Central Bank, complemented by the expanding stimulus from Japan and China has tapered the negative impact of the impending US policy rate normalization and allayed downside risks to global growth. World GDP is forecast to grow from 2.52% in 2014 to 3%-3.5% in 2015 led by the US economy.

Portfolio Overview and Outlook

Following the positive momentum in the first quarter, the fixed income funds will tread cautiously as US economic recovery warrants policy adjustment, as the strength of the US dollar impacts capital flows, as oil supply and price levels stabilize, and as economic conditions improve in developed countries following liquidity stimulus. On the local front, markets to increasingly shift focus on political developments as 2016 election-related activities and issues heat up. Despite the near term risks, we remain optimistic on the Philippine Bond market underpinned by strong local fundamentals that will continue to attract global market liquidity to Investment grade credit with high returns while global policy rates largely remain low and accommodative.

Results of Operations (in thousands of USD)

Interim as of March 31, 2015

The Fund generated net investment income of USD935 thousand and USD1.045 million for the period ended March 31, 2015 and March 31, 2014, respectively. This is brought about by the impact of the market performance of securities measured at FVTPL and available for sale securities together with the impact of the fluctuation in foreign currency exchange rate.

Earnings Per Share as of end-March 2015 was USD0.0312, which was a slight improvement from the March 2014 EPS of USD0.0306.

FY 2014 vs FY 2013

Net income for 2014 was USD5,813, a 177.43% increase from the net loss in 2013 (USD7,507). The increase was characterized mainly by the movement of fair value gains (losses) as a result of the market's movement. Interest income decreased as a result of the decrease in securities measured at fair value through profit or loss, which is the basis for accrual.

The fund also posted earnings per share equivalent to USD0.0948, a stark contrast compared to the loss per share in 2013 amounting to USD0.2028.

FY 2013 vs. FY 2012

The fund incurred a net loss of USD7.507 by the end of 2013. This figure was 190.81% lower than the 2012 net income of USD8,267.

Loss per share at the end of 2013 was USD0.2028. This figure was 192.27% lower compared to 2012's earnings per share of USD0.2198.

The table below summarizes the accounts with material movements (+/- 5%) and their corresponding explanations:

Taxes and licenses	559	3,064	(2,505)	(81.76%)
Income tax expense	44	297	(253)	(85.19%)

Cash and cash equivalents – The decrease in cash and cash equivalents is due to utilization of available assets in the investment securities by the Fund Manager.

Financial assets at FVTPL – The movement is mainly defined by the volume of disposals of securities measured at fair value through profit or loss.

Available-for-sale securities- The increase is due to the acquisition of Government Securities classified as Available-for-sale securities during the year.

Due to Philam Asset Management, Inc.- The increase is due to management fee payable computed based on the level of AUM in 2014.

Share capital – The decrease is due to net client redemptions of Php370 million during the year.

Fair value gains (losses), net – The movement is highly attributable to market performance of bonds at given period resulting to significant gains in 2014 as compared to losses in 2013.

Taxes and licenses and Income tax expense – The decrease is due to lower taxes paid in 2014.
